

Stand Up for American Jobs and Louisiana's Energy Infrastructure

Creating new American jobs and investing in infrastructure can start right here in Louisiana with the Bayou Bridge Pipeline that will transport crude oil from Lake Charles to St. James:

- Shovel-ready project that will create 2,500 construction jobs
- $17.6 million in new sales tax generated during construction and annual property tax starting at $1.8 million during its first year in operation
- $750 million total of private investment
- Partnering with local Louisiana contractors, material suppliers, small businesses, landowners, and other stakeholders
- 100% of the pipe is American-made in Louisiana
- Environmentally sensitive, meeting or exceeding all federal, state, and local requirements
- Industry's leading standards for safe construction and operations

All of the economic benefits above are at risk if an outspoken minority stands in the way of jobs and millions of dollars in direct spending in Louisiana. Agencies should give the Bayou Bridge Pipeline a fair review and expeditious approval.

Stand up for jobs and energy independence.
